

THE HAMILTONIAN

Russia-Gate Exposed as Total Fraud An Offensive for U.S.-Russia-China 'New Paradigm' Is Urgent

July 26—On Monday, the Veteran Intelligence Professionals for Sanity (VIPS) produced an extraordinary memorandum that conclusively demolishes the supposed evidence of so-called “Russian hacks” into computers of the Democratic National Committee. The material released by internet persona Guccifer 2.0, who was presented as a Russian state actor, was not a hack, but a leak by someone with physical access to DNC computers. That material had been deliberately doctored to add false Russian fingerprints, portrayed as evidence left behind by a clumsy Russian spy.

Helga Zepp-LaRouche mandated that this must be circulated internationally, in every language possible. “Go like Hell” were her instructions.

A LaRouchePAC video report on the VIPS memo is available here: <http://lpac.co/vips-memo>. A link to the VIPS memo itself is found in the video description.

The VIPS group, which includes former NSA Technical Director William Binney, back the independent forensic analysis performed by a group including Skip Folden, retired IBM Program Manager for Information Technology U.S. No such forensic analysis was performed in any of the Obama intelligence community’s so-called “assessments.” The VIPS state that there were two inside leaks from the DNC. The first was in June 2016, sometime before Julian Assange’s June 12th announcement that he had DNC documents and planned to publish them. The second leak was on July 5, 2016 to pre-emptively taint anything Wikileaks might publish by “showing it came from a Russian hack.” As is well-known, Wikileaks did publish its DNC trove showing that Hillary Clinton and the DNC conspired to rig the Democratic Presidential primary process against Bernie Sanders.

The key forensic finding is that on July 5, 2016, “in early evening Eastern Daylight Time, someone working in the EDT time zone with a computer directly con-ected of the DNC server or DNC Local Area Network, copied 1,976 Megabytes of data in 87 seconds onto an external storage device. That speed is many times faster than what is possible physically with a hack. It thus appears that the purported hack of the DNC by Guccifer 2.0 (the self-proclaimed Wikileaks source) was not a hack by Russia or anyone else, but was, rather, a copy of DNC data onto an external storage device. The forensics performed on the metadata reveal there was a subsequent synthetic insertion – a cut and paste job using a Russian template, with the clear aim of attributing the data to a Russian hack. This was all performed in the East Coast time zone.”

The VIPS memo calls on the President to investigate the CIA, particularly former Director John Brennan, and the FBI, for the phony hack and fake Russian attribution. They cite the ability of the CIA to create false flag hacks on the basis of the recently disclosed Vault 7 tools, including the Marble Framework. In this regard, former CIA Director

Brennan called for a coup, in essence, against President Trump at the recently concluded Aspen Security Forum should Trump remove Special Counsel Robert Mueller, his handpicked favorite for continuing their illegal and unconstitutional war against President Trump. We propose that the President demand an immediate investigation of Brennan and his ilk instead, both by a newly appointed Special Counsel and by the Congress. If you are reading this and want to do something about it, please share this statement as widely as possible and call your Senator or Representative and demand an investigation.

PETITION: Congress, Suck it up & Move On It's Time to Rebuild the Country

The text of this petition was updated slightly on 7/24/17 to better reflect current events.

We the undersigned, Republicans, Democrats, and Independents, call upon our Senators and Representatives to immediately start acting on our behalf based on the following statements, principles and political program:

Our statements and principles:

1. Donald Trump was elected President because he addressed forgotten Americans, promised to revitalize and modernize the manufacturing and productive economy of the United States, and committed himself to end the ceaseless, deadly, and purposeless foreign wars of the last decades.

2. He was not elected because Russians manipulated social media accounts or otherwise suckered the American people into voting for him. This claim is an arrogant insult to the millions of very intelligent people who voted for Donald Trump. Watching the day-to-day media hysteria, any rational observer is horrified, not at what the President actually did, but at the media and select politicians who seem to have gone collectively insane and now demand that the rest of us join them.

3. The heritage of the failed Bush and Obama Administrations together with the insurrection against the President, has left the country divided and is now paralyzing political progress. The media falsely portrays the division as permanent, dividing the country into militant camps of “resisters” and “defenders” conducting what purports to be human speech in the form of animal grunts and reactively shouted obscenities. This is not reality.

4. The President promised to reinstate the 1933 Glass-Steagall Act, to create a modern productive economy based on manufacturing and large scale infrastructure projects, to return to fundamental scientific discovery and space exploration, and to end wars on behalf of the security interests of others. This is the unified political program with which most Americans agree.

5. On the other side of the world, at the Belt and Road Summit in Beijing, on May 14-15, 2017, a new and exciting reality came into being. China and 67 other nations have launched the largest infrastructure-building project ever undertaken in human history. It will lift millions out of poverty and will provide millions of productive jobs, including, potentially, here in the United States. President Trump has wisely begun negotiations for the United States and for U.S. companies to join this great project. Despite official Washington’s freakout, the President has also forged relationships with Russia and others which could result in peace and save millions of lives in regions of the world now engulfed and destroyed by war.

6. The President’s economic promises, however, remain dangerously unfulfilled. Our infrastructure is collapsing all around us, a new Wall Street corporate debt bubble looms on the horizon promising a collapse worse than 2008, and our population is gripped by an opium epidemic and the despair which arises from the jobless and non-productive “recovery.”

7. These promises must now be fulfilled. We need a new Glass-Steagall Act to prevent another Wall Street collapse and bailout. We need a public credit system, like Alexander Hamilton used, to fund and build modern infrastructure throughout the nation, a platform for developing this country over the next 50 years. We need to fund NASA and return to space exploration and development of advanced energy sources, such as fusion—making fundamental scientific and technological discoveries and exciting the imaginations and creativity of our population.

Therefore, we pledge to make these promises a reality. Until we have generated a true economic recovery, Congress should focus on nothing else domestically. Negotiating U.S. participation in China’s Belt and Road great project for the world should be our foreign policy preoccupation. In 50 years, where should our nation be? This is the potential reality which must occupy us now.

So, Congress, really, suck it up, move on, start rebuilding this country. If you resist, we pledge that you will face an electoral drubbing in 2018, the likes of which no one has ever before seen.

SOLVE THE NYC CRISIS:

Launch a New Economic System of Development

On Monday, July 17th, the LaRouchePAC.com broadcast featured Policy Committee members Diane Sare and Kesha Rogers with host Matt Ogden addressing the urgent need for the United States to implement Mr. LaRouche’s Four Laws before the impending blow-out of the trans-Atlantic system. Mrs. LaRouche, founder of the international Schiller Institute, made the point that President Trump’s decision to meet with President Putin, and his ongoing work with President Xi, has created great potential for the progress of mankind, yet the United States’ economic collapse remains the Achilles heel of this administration, and it is up to the LaRouche Movement to address it.

OGDEN: If you use Glass-Steagall to shut down Wall Street and to dismantle this power center which has been so concentrated in Wall Street and in the City of London, you restore the political power back to the Constitutional American System, and you free up the Presidency to act on these necessary policies, just as Franklin Roosevelt did.

And I think we’ll get into it more, but it’s a very nefarious role that’s being played right now by Treasury Secretary Steve Mnuchin, one that the American people should be very angry about, and should be something that should be strongly denounced, as Lyndon LaRouche did when Mnuchin was originally appointed.

But there is nowhere where the immediate necessary for this kind of national mobilization for emergency recovery program is more apparent than right now in the heart of New York City. And so, I’d like to ask Diane to say a little bit about the situation there right now, and help to fill out this picture a little bit.

DIANE SARE: Sure. I had made a point a few weeks ago, as we were going into the Sylvia Olden Lee tribute that the Schiller Institute Chorus was involved in, that I had become very acutely aware of the crisis in the transportation system, because of the number of people showing up late for rehearsals. And then a couple of my colleagues lost three tires while driving off of Staten Island, in a pothole. And I realized just to take a step back and actually think about this, forget the individual incidents, what’s being indicated here? And what’s being indicated, is that the tunnels crossing the Hudson River, which were built on the New Jersey side in 1907, so they’re 110 years old; there’s some on the East Side built at that time, or one later, I think, 1924 — in other words you have infrastructure that’s close to a century old; you have switches in the subways that were built in the 1920s and ‘30s; you have a road system which is not being repaired because of budget cuts, not in the way that it should be: when you repave a road, you’re supposed to start from the bottom, not just pick a particular pothole and fill it.

So what you’re looking at is a breakdown, plus the infrastructure we’re using was not built for a population level that we have today. The traffic flow at Penn Station is almost triple —before the so-called Summer of Hell, where 3 out of 21 tracks are now closed for repairs—it was built for a capacity of I think about 250,000 commuters a day. It’s 650,000 is what it’s getting. And every corridor in and out of Manhattan is similarly overloaded. You have something like 1.6 million people coming into Manhattan every day to work. It’s slightly less than that in the summer, but that’s what it is.

And I had raised the question, as to what are the implications, and when I spoke with Mr. LaRouche about this, he said, you need a committee, and one of the first things he outlined is that you need a forecast, you need a perspective on what happens if this were not done.... I made the sort of obvious hypothesis that if you are trying to move 20% of the population on one...

LaRouche PAC Emergency Mobilization: “WALL STREET IS THE PROBLEM”

This week, the LaRouche Political Action Committee (LPAC) issued an emergency call for mobilization to preempt the chaos and devastation that will result across the Americas, Europe and beyond, if we don't take measures to initiate a Glass-Steagall re-organization of banking and credit, and proceed with funding for largescale, priority, physical infrastructure projects, and a resumption of space exploration and fusion power R & D. In 2014, Lyndon LaRouche laid out “Four Laws” of how best to move on this; now the situation has become life and death.

LaRouche said yesterday, “Wall Street IS the problem. This is a key issue which must be pushed to the top, to be followed through, to prevent this danger to the economy as a whole.”

There are trigger points throughout the Trans-Atlantic financial system, any one of which can fire, and explode the huge amounts of toxic debt and unpayable claims involved, bringing down the economy with it. These include everything from the U.S. consumer debt bubble, to bundled auto loans, to corporate bad debt, and quadrillions of dollars of exotic derivative “products.”

At the top of this monetarist nightmare is the Wall Street/City of London crowd, insisting that nothing needs to be done. They have lied all along that, “we are past” the 2007-8 crisis. All the while, the super-rich get richer, and the ordinary citizen is robbed and left to die.

On any day, look at the headline reports of the reality of the fragility of the system, and the mass suffering it's causing.

In Italy at present, there is a criminal EU ‘management’ process underway of the so-called banking crisis, in which the EU is ordering a massive destruction of families’ resources. Instead of subjecting Italian banks in trouble to a process of Glass-Steagall reorganization (separating and supporting regular, commercial banking, from speculative practices,) the EU has decreed a sell-off of the banks’ non-performing loans (NPLs,) in such a way as to drastically de-value the collateral behind them, which is often household and industrial real estate. Out of EU88 bil of such collateral, an estimated EU 63 bil is expected to vaporize. This means the impoverishment of millions of families and businesses.

In the United States this month, the first group of retirees is getting slammed with drastic cuts in their pensions, under a measure signed by Pres. Obama in 2014, called the “Multi-employer Pension Fund Reform Act” (MPFRA.) In Ohio, retirees from the Cleveland Iron Workers Local 17 are getting pension cuts up to 63 percent, because, when their group pension fund faced bankruptcy—as many do, because of economic decline, the Obama law demands cuts as the “solution,” instead of using measures such as the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, set up in 1974 for just such contingencies. The ironworkers paid into their pension plan throughout their whole careers; some even took early retirement, in exchange for the promise of a pension. They are now plunged from middle-class, to poverty, with threat of homelessness.

Meantime, all across the U.S. there are examples of the literal collapse of the physical infrastructure for existence, from water systems to bridges. New York City is the international example, whose transportation system is in breakdown.

Pres. Donald Trump was elected on the demand of voters to stop the mass robbery, collapse and misery in the

and he has made verbal commitments both to Glass Steagall, and to major infrastructure investment. Making good on this now demands that we act to bust up the Wall Street command-and-control over the economy and government. Timing is critical. Sept. 30—if we make it—is the end of the fiscal year for the Federal government and many corporate and other entities—a time when accounts are due, but at this point, untenable. Even before that, the first week of September is when millions more passenger trips will be attempted in New York City as school opens. Will it be carnage?

Our actions now are the deciding factor.

Helga Zepp-LaRouche to the American People: “Help President Trump Fulfill His Promise”

There are new developments in the world many Americans really have no inkling about because the mainstream media are not reporting it. That is that there is a new geometry emerging very quickly in the world which President Trump relates positively to. Almost four years ago, the President of China Xi Jinping initiated a policy which he called the New Silk Road. What it actually is, is to—in the tradition of the Asian Silk Road—to build up the infrastructure of the landlocked areas of the planet in Asia, in Eurasia, in Africa, in Latin America. This policy has changed the world for the better. It has become a very attractive model because it offers the kind of development which was not there before. Therefore, people in Latin America, in Africa are very happy, because for the first time they see a hope and the possibility to overcome poverty forever.

Now President Trump has established a very good relationship with President Xi Jinping. Ever since the meeting in Mar-a-Lago in Florida in April, the two have really hit it off. There is a good chemistry between and this meeting is really working very well. As a result of it, President Trump sent very high-level representation to the Belt and Road Forum, which was a summit of this new initiative including 110 nations. The United States was represented by Matt Pottinger. In the meantime, they have concluded many positive agreements—investment deals—especially export and import between the United States and China.

Also, the meeting between President Trump and President Putin of Russia in the context of the G-20 summit in Hamburg was very productive. Despite the attempts to prevent this kind of collaboration, they concluded a ceasefire for Syria, bringing the hope to end this horrible war in this country; and the deconfliction between the militaries is working.

Also on another front, namely North Korea, the new South Korean President Moon has now offered military-to-military cooperation and discussions with North Korea. This is backed by China. So, with this new strategic policy of President Trump, the improvement of the relationship between the United States and China, and the United States and Russia, we are potentially in a completely new geometry. If the Presidents of the three most powerful countries on this planet—the United States, China, and Russia—can work together in solving the problem of the hotspots, but also in general to set up completely new relations to go back to a new détente, ending the Cold War; this is so important for world peace and the livelihood of all of humanity.

There is one big problem; one Achilles’ heel. That is that because of the tremendous campaign against Trump, the Russia-gate, the whole demonization of Trump, he has not yet been able to fulfill his election promises on the economy. And the US economy is really collapsing; the figures are absolutely telling. You have bankruptcies, we are on the verge of having a new collapse like 2008; but this time much, much bigger, because all the figures are much worse. The infrastructure is collapsing. In New York you have right now the “Summer of Hell” where trains are on fire, people are in panic; this is just a completely untenable situation. Therefore, it is extremely urgent that President Trump is being supported in fulfilling his election promise to invest at least $1 trillion in the American infrastructure. He has offers from China, offering to invest $60 billion of US Treasuries which are owned by China into infrastructure in the United States. There are other offers of such investments.

The problem is, right now there is a big battle. The Democrats who are behind the Russia-gate do not want to face up to the reasons why they lost the election; but it was the policies of globalization making the rich more rich and the majority of people poorer, and naturally having these interventionist wars which cause havoc all over the planet. So, the Democrats are not willing to face up to that, and they’re not letting go with the Russia-gate. But also, the neo-cons in the Republican Party are trying to keep Trump from improving relations with Russia, with China; and especially not re-regulating Wall Street.

But this is the crucial thing. Trump must fulfill his election promise to implement Glass-Steagall, to go back to the American System of economy which he mentioned in several speeches, that he wants to go back to the policies of Alexander Hamilton, of Henry Clay, of Lincoln, Henry C. Carey, and implement Glass-Steagall. But he can't do it alone. He is involved in so many fights that he needs you. I'm appealing to you; back up your President at this point in this fight. We are at a tremendous historical juncture; we can actually move the world into safety, trying to get over the danger of thermonuclear war and the extinction of civilization forever. This is on the horizon, but it requires that Trump can do what he promised; and you have to help him.

I said several months ago, if President Trump succeeds in improving the relationship with Russia and China, he can become one of the greatest Presidents in American history. I still absolutely believe that; but he can't do it alone.

So therefore, allow me from abroad, to appeal to you as American patriots. Help President Trump actively to fulfill his promise.

Create a Classical Renaissance with the Schiller Institute NYC Chorus

The Schiller Institute NYC Chorus is committed to creating a renaissance in the United States based on principles of Classical Composition. In music this means Italian “bel canto” placement of the voice at the proper scientific tuning, as advocated by Guiseppe Verdi of Middle C = 256 Hz. (A no higher than 432 Hz).

In September 2016, the Schiller Institute NYC Chorus, joined by friends from NJ, Boston, and Virginia, was able to perform the entire Mozart Requiem with a chorus of over 80 members, and a professional orchestra and soloists, in living memorial for those lost on 9/11/2001.

The chorus has now expanded to Queens and Brooklyn over the past year, and has become a crucial part of Lyndon LaRouche’s “Manhattan Project,” to restore Manhattan as the intellectual and cultural capital of the United States, as it was during the time of Alexander Hamilton.
